

Conservation Officials Recognized September 6, 2005

Lorraine Conrad and Jim Mullis were recognized by Richland County Council for their volunteer service as Conservation Commissioners. Chairman Tony Mizzell and Council Member Bernice Scott read a formal resolution highlighting the leadership and service of both individuals. Lorraine Conrad served for 12 years providing leadership in conservation education and community involvement and was instrumental in developing the Education Center at Sandhills . Jim Mullis served for 38 years and helped Richland County develop programs for erosion control, drainage, dry hydrants and watershed protection. The Resolution commended both citizens for their dedicated service to Richland County.
